New KL2 Career Development Scholars Named

Congratulations to all of our Scholars!

Complaining the program March 31 are:

- Leanne Griffin, PhD, medical oncology, UC, department of psychiatry that year and is currently assistant professor of psychiatry and behavioral neuroscience, UC department of psychiatry that year and is currently assistant professor of psychiatry and behavioral neuroscience, CCHMC.
- Susan Hachette, PhD, medical oncology, UC, department of psychiatry that year and is currently assistant professor of psychiatry and behavioral neuroscience, CCHMC.
- Christopher Majeski, PhD, emergency medicine, CCHMC.
- Lyle Hunsberger, PhD, sports medicine, CCHMC

They join 2012 appointees

- Teresa Smith, PhD, assistant professor, UC environmental health and biology, CCHMC.
- Erika Rote, PhD, assistant professor, UC environmental health and biology, CCHMC.
- Teresa D'Amalfi, MD, assistant professor, UC medical engineering. CCHMC.
- Frank Vranizan, MD, associate professor, UC environmental health and biology, CCHMC.
- Tanya Strasser, PhD, assistant professor, UC environmental health and biology, CCHMC.
- Kari Hallahan, PhD, assistant professor, UC environmental health and biology, CCHMC.

The next request for applications will be issued in fall 2013.

Individual career development awards, or R01 grants. Scholars are expected to pursue their own K23 or similar grants /revised extramural grant submissions. Up to $7,500 may be allocated to the Scholars to support their efforts with the CCTST.

New KL2 Career Development Scholars Named

- Leanne Griffin, PhD, medical oncology, UC, department of psychiatry that year and is currently assistant professor of psychiatry and behavioral neuroscience, CCHMC.
- Susan Hachette, PhD, medical oncology, UC, department of psychiatry that year and is currently assistant professor of psychiatry and behavioral neuroscience, CCHMC.
- Christopher Majeski, PhD, emergency medicine, CCHMC.
- Lyle Hunsberger, PhD, sports medicine, CCHMC

They join 2012 appointees

- Teresa Smith, PhD, assistant professor, UC environmental health and biology, CCHMC.
- Erika Rote, PhD, assistant professor, UC environmental health and biology, CCHMC.
- Teresa D'Amalfi, MD, assistant professor, UC medical engineering. CCHMC.
- Frank Vranizan, MD, associate professor, UC environmental health and biology, CCHMC.
- Tanya Strasser, PhD, assistant professor, UC environmental health and biology, CCHMC.
- Kari Hallahan, PhD, assistant professor, UC environmental health and biology, CCHMC.

The next request for applications will be issued in fall 2013.

Individual career development awards, or R01 grants. Scholars are expected to pursue their own K23 or similar grants /revised extramural grant submissions. Up to $7,500 may be allocated to the Scholars to support their efforts with the CCTST.

New KL2 Career Development Scholars Named

- Leanne Griffin, PhD, medical oncology, UC, department of psychiatry that year and is currently assistant professor of psychiatry and behavioral neuroscience, CCHMC.
- Susan Hachette, PhD, medical oncology, UC, department of psychiatry that year and is currently assistant professor of psychiatry and behavioral neuroscience, CCHMC.
- Christopher Majeski, PhD, emergency medicine, CCHMC.
- Lyle Hunsberger, PhD, sports medicine, CCHMC

They join 2012 appointees

- Teresa Smith, PhD, assistant professor, UC environmental health and biology, CCHMC.
- Erika Rote, PhD, assistant professor, UC environmental health and biology, CCHMC.
- Teresa D'Amalfi, MD, assistant professor, UC medical engineering. CCHMC.
- Frank Vranizan, MD, associate professor, UC environmental health and biology, CCHMC.
- Tanya Strasser, PhD, assistant professor, UC environmental health and biology, CCHMC.
- Kari Hallahan, PhD, assistant professor, UC environmental health and biology, CCHMC.

The next request for applications will be issued in fall 2013.

Individual career development awards, or R01 grants. Scholars are expected to pursue their own K23 or similar grants /revised extramural grant submissions. Up to $7,500 may be allocated to the Scholars to support their efforts with the CCTST.

New KL2 Career Development Scholars Named

- Leanne Griffin, PhD, medical oncology, UC, department of psychiatry that year and is currently assistant professor of psychiatry and behavioral neuroscience, CCHMC.
- Susan Hachette, PhD, medical oncology, UC, department of psychiatry that year and is currently assistant professor of psychiatry and behavioral neuroscience, CCHMC.
- Christopher Majeski, PhD, emergency medicine, CCHMC.
- Lyle Hunsberger, PhD, sports medicine, CCHMC

They join 2012 appointees

- Teresa Smith, PhD, assistant professor, UC environmental health and biology, CCHMC.
- Erika Rote, PhD, assistant professor, UC environmental health and biology, CCHMC.
- Teresa D'Amalfi, MD, assistant professor, UC medical engineering. CCHMC.
- Frank Vranizan, MD, associate professor, UC environmental health and biology, CCHMC.
- Tanya Strasser, PhD, assistant professor, UC environmental health and biology, CCHMC.
- Kari Hallahan, PhD, assistant professor, UC environmental health and biology, CCHMC.

The next request for applications will be issued in fall 2013.

Individual career development awards, or R01 grants. Scholars are expected to pursue their own K23 or similar grants /revised extramural grant submissions. Up to $7,500 may be allocated to the Scholars to support their efforts with the CCTST.

New KL2 Career Development Scholars Named

- Leanne Griffin, PhD, medical oncology, UC, department of psychiatry that year and is currently assistant professor of psychiatry and behavioral neuroscience, CCHMC.
- Susan Hachette, PhD, medical oncology, UC, department of psychiatry that year and is currently assistant professor of psychiatry and behavioral neuroscience, CCHMC.
- Christopher Majeski, PhD, emergency medicine, CCHMC.
- Lyle Hunsberger, PhD, sports medicine, CCHMC

They join 2012 appointees

- Teresa Smith, PhD, assistant professor, UC environmental health and biology, CCHMC.
- Erika Rote, PhD, assistant professor, UC environmental health and biology, CCHMC.
- Teresa D'Amalfi, MD, assistant professor, UC medical engineering. CCHMC.
- Frank Vranizan, MD, associate professor, UC environmental health and biology, CCHMC.
- Tanya Strasser, PhD, assistant professor, UC environmental health and biology, CCHMC.
- Kari Hallahan, PhD, assistant professor, UC environmental health and biology, CCHMC.

The next request for applications will be issued in fall 2013.

Individual career development awards, or R01 grants. Scholars are expected to pursue their own K23 or similar grants /revised extramural grant submissions. Up to $7,500 may be allocated to the Scholars to support their efforts with the CCTST.

New KL2 Career Development Scholars Named

- Leanne Griffin, PhD, medical oncology, UC, department of psychiatry that year and is currently assistant professor of psychiatry and behavioral neuroscience, CCHMC.
- Susan Hachette, PhD, medical oncology, UC, department of psychiatry that year and is currently assistant professor of psychiatry and behavioral neuroscience, CCHMC.
- Christopher Majeski, PhD, emergency medicine, CCHMC.
- Lyle Hunsberger, PhD, sports medicine, CCHMC

They join 2012 appointees

- Teresa Smith, PhD, assistant professor, UC environmental health and biology, CCHMC.
- Erika Rote, PhD, assistant professor, UC environmental health and biology, CCHMC.
- Teresa D'Amalfi, MD, assistant professor, UC medical engineering. CCHMC.
- Frank Vranizan, MD, associate professor, UC environmental health and biology, CCHMC.
- Tanya Strasser, PhD, assistant professor, UC environmental health and biology, CCHMC.
- Kari Hallahan, PhD, assistant professor, UC environmental health and biology, CCHMC.

The next request for applications will be issued in fall 2013.

Individual career development awards, or R01 grants. Scholars are expected to pursue their own K23 or similar grants /revised extramural grant submissions. Up to $7,500 may be allocated to the Scholars to support their efforts with the CCTST.

New KL2 Career Development Scholars Named

- Leanne Griffin, PhD, medical oncology, UC, department of psychiatry that year and is currently assistant professor of psychiatry and behavioral neuroscience, CCHMC.
- Susan Hachette, PhD, medical oncology, UC, department of psychiatry that year and is currently assistant professor of psychiatry and behavioral neuroscience, CCHMC.
- Christopher Majeski, PhD, emergency medicine, CCHMC.
- Lyle Hunsberger, PhD, sports medicine, CCHMC

They join 2012 appointees

- Teresa Smith, PhD, assistant professor, UC environmental health and biology, CCHMC.
- Erika Rote, PhD, assistant professor, UC environmental health and biology, CCHMC.
- Teresa D'Amalfi, MD, assistant professor, UC medical engineering. CCHMC.
- Frank Vranizan, MD, associate professor, UC environmental health and biology, CCHMC.
- Tanya Strasser, PhD, assistant professor, UC environmental health and biology, CCHMC.
- Kari Hallahan, PhD, assistant professor, UC environmental health and biology, CCHMC.

The next request for applications will be issued in fall 2013.

Individual career development awards, or R01 grants. Scholars are expected to pursue their own K23 or similar grants /revised extramural grant submissions. Up to $7,500 may be allocated to the Scholars to support their efforts with the CCTST.